Whopper Eggs Laid by Hens of 'Dutch' Crest

G. E. "Dutch" Crest of out Pankeyville way should sell his eggs by the pound and not by the dozen. Mr. Crest brought in four whoppers a couple of days ago. I put the entire group on some postal scales and the four of them weighed exactly one pound.

Then I weighed them separately. The biggest weighed four and a half ounces, the smallest three and a half ounces and the other two approximately four ounces each.

Then I ran a string around the biggest one—both ways—and measured the string. I found that the egg was seven and one-eighth inches around the small way and eight and three-fourths inches around the long way.

They were laid by his New Hampshire Red hens.

"GO TAKE 'EM HOME with you and eat 'em," said Mr. Crest to Timotheus. "They're fresh."

And fresh they were, because that evening Timotheus took over the cooking duties.

I made a cheese omelet. A great big one. Got the biggest skillet out to do it.

As I broke them I found that the biggest egg had three yolks and the others two each. But I had one accident. As I broke the big one to drop the inside into a cup that I had sitting in the sink, one of the yolks slipped overboard and slid right down into the drain before I could stop it. So I had a four-egg, eight-yolk omelet. With cheese, of course.

Mollet, Eden To Confer on Algerian Crisis

French Mobs in Tunis Burn
American Flag

PARIS (U.P.)—Premier Guy Mollet flies to London Sunday to urge united action against Egypt's meddling in the Algerian crisis, which erupted Friday into anti-American and anti-French rioting on two continents.

Mollet will confer with Prime Minister Anthony Eden during a weekend lull in parliamentary action on his demand for "blank check" powers to deal with the murderous anti-French underground in Algeria—a demand virtually certain to be approved in a confidence vote Monday.

Violent outbreaks occurred Friday in three principal trouble centers:

Tunis: French mobs screaming "Hang Mollet and Mendes-France" burned an American flag, wrecked two official U. S. office buildings and stoned French High Commissioner Roger Seydoux's car. One rioter was killed and two natives were mauled by the mob before troops with tear gas restored order.

Paris: Algerian rioters battled police in an attempted "march on the National Assembly" where Mollet's demand for emergency powers was being debated. Two French truck drivers were stabbed by the mob, and some 2,500 rioters were arrested. Most of them were released later.

Algeria: Mourners for a murdered Frenchman blocked roads southeast of Algiers stopping and searching all cars driven by natives and manhandling the drivers. French troops killed 35 Arab guerrillas in scattered clashes elsewhere in Algeria, increasing the week's casualties in the big overseas province to almost 250 dead.

The Tunis mob's attack on the U. S. Consulate and information service reflected French feeling that America has encouraged the Arab uprising in North Africa by offering only lukewarm support to France.

Seydoux apologized to U. S. authorities today for the "unjustifiable acts of violence" committed by the mob.

Arrest Woman As Suspect in Poison Deaths

MOBILE, Ala. (U.P.)—Authorities today set about exhuming the bodies of seven relatives including five young daughters that a 49-year-old waitress is suspected of murdering with arsenic.

Mrs. Rhonda Belle Martin was arrested and charged with murder Friday after a two-month investigation started secretly after her present husband was found suffering from arsenic poisoning.

That investigation already has resulted in an autopsy on the body of her former husband, Claude Martin, who died at 50 in 1951. Officers said traces of arsenic were found. She was charged with his death.

Police said they now planned to investigate the deaths of five young daughters and another husband, all buried in Montgomery, Ala., and her mother, buried near here.

All the victims died of diarrhea and vomiting, which the officials said are symptoms of arsenic poisoning.

Mrs. Martin denied the charge, saying "there's nothing to it."

Mrs. Martin's present husband, Ronald C. Martin, stepson of Claude Martin and about 19 years Mrs. Martin's junior, was admitted to a Veterans hospital at Biloxi, Miss., for treatment of a similar ailment.

Dale Carnegie Course to Begin Here Next Friday

A Dale Carnegie course, sponsored by the Kiwanis club and taught by instructors from Lockyear's Business college in Evansville, will begin next Friday night at the Kurtz Country club.

A demonstration meeting last night at the country club, Bill Wooten and Rice Kello of Lockyear's, explained what a Dale Carnegie course offers in effective speaking, human relations, memory and leadership training.

Lockyear's began teaching the Dale Carnegie courses in 1944 and have held many classes in Evansville and the tri-state area. Civic clubs in the area usually sponsor the classes with their main interest in training and developing leadership in the communities.

Flood Threat Easing Along Ohio River Valley

By United Press

A flood threat in the Ohio River Valley eased today but in the Midwest residents were warned that a developing storm may bring blizzards.

A special weather bulletin released at Kansas City said most of Nebraska could expect blizzard conditions today with blowing and drifting snow and winds up to 45 miles an hour.

Western Kansas may feel the effects, the weather bulletin said. Temperatures were expected to drop to 5 to 10 degrees above zero in Nebraska by morning and near cold wave conditions may hit Kansas tonight and Sunday.

The crest of the subdued Ohio River moved slowly downstream, with the threat of a dangerous flood minimized.

Kentucky and Ohio River areas were expected to escape the devastation caused by the Ohio's ram-paging tributary, the Allegheny, which swamped areas of northwestern Pennsylvania and western New York.

Eisenhower Sends Message to Pope

VATICAN CITY (U.P.)—President Eisenhower, in a personal message delivered to Pope Pius XII today, praised the Pontiff's work for world unity and peace. He said the Pope's work was an "inspiration to mankind."

Mr. Eisenhower's message was presented to the Pope by John A. McCone, Los Angeles businessman who is serving as the President's representative at ceremonies marking the Pontiff's 80th birthday and the 17th anniversary of his coronation.

McCone, the first U. S. presidential representative to call on the Pope in six years, was received today in a 13 minute audience in the papal library.

Mobs Battle British Police on Cyprus; Demonstration in Athens

ATHENS, Greece (U.P.)—Infuriated mobs battled British police today in Cyprus and thousands of Greeks demonstrated in Athens against British expulsion of nationalist leader Archbishop Makarios from Cyprus.

Police called in the army at both Athens and Salonika but hard-fighting demonstrators knocked out two armored cars and locked with the security forces in fierce brawls that injured at least 50 persons.

The disorders were spreading. Archbishop Spyridon of Greece issued an appeal to all churches through the holy synod of the Greek Orthodox Church to champion the Cypriot cause.

The mobs in Athens burned a British flag in mass protest in front of Athens University while another 3,000 stormed through the streets of Salonika where the U. S. consulate was stoned Friday.

A dispatch from Nicosia said British troops opened up with tear gas against stone-throwing mobs.

A spontaneous but unproclaimed strike paralyzed Cyprus. Taxi drivers parked their cabs, printers walked out and shut down the island's Greek press.

Most shops closed. Housewives abandoned factories. Housewives shuttered homes.

Greece recalled her ambassador from the court of St. James at Britain's deportation of the pro-Greek archbishop on grounds he condoned if not actually encouraged anti-British violence there.

The crisis shook NATO unity. In Cyprus, demonstrators marching through the streets of Kyrenia launched volleys of rocks directly against the British security forces and their vehicles. The forces fired tear gas bombs and dispersed the demonstrators in clouds of vapor.

But the British did not doubt that more trouble was coming. Troops deployed throughout the island.

He will teach his courses in orientation and driver training but probably will not take part in the spring athletic program.

Places Prestige On Line to Beat Senator Morse

Ex-Republican is Number One Target
Of GOP Campaigns

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—President Eisenhower laid his personal prestige on the line today in the 1956 battle for control of Congress.

He placed it first behind Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay, who filed Friday as a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination in Oregon. The Oregon GOP nominee faces Sen. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.) next November.

Morse—a former Republican who became an independent and then a Democrat—is the No. 1 target of the GOP in the senatorial campaigns this year.

Mr. Eisenhower, who conferred with McKay Thursday, also was understood to be trying to persuade GOP Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington to challenge Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) in November. Langlie was reported to have been an unannounced White House caller early this week.

Five Target States
Washington and Oregon are two of the five states in which the GOP has its greatest hopes of unseating Democrats to regain control of the Senate, now divided 48 Democrats to 47 Republicans. The others are New York, Kentucky and Nevada.

Mr. Eisenhower has been chafing under Democratic control of Congress since his party returned to a minority role after the 1954 mid-term elections. At best, the GOP faces an uphill fight to recapture control of the Senate.

After McKay's announcement, the White House in an unusual move made public a "Dear Doug" letter from the President saying McKay's decision deserved "the highest commendation."

Cites Needed Strength

"As a member of the United States Senate," the President said, "you will add a great deal to the working strength we need and must have in order to carry out the objectives of this administration."

Release of Mr. Eisenhower's letter was unusual in that it represented an endorsement of McKay in advance of the Oregon primary.

Morse, who has continually attacked McKay's administration of the Interior Department, immediately welcomed the challenge from the secretary. He called McKay "the handpicked candidate of the White House."

Good News—Ka-choo!

Medical specialists meeting in New York predicted recently that by 1961 a cure will have been devised for the common cold. This is great news for the millions who suffer this annoyance from one to a dozen times a year. But bad news for magazine editors.

They will have been robbed of one of their prize staples the moment there is an affirmative answer to the question: "Is there a cure for the common cold?" It's a topic they return to again and again, with affection. They know the latest word will always be gobbled up by their sniffing readers.

The scientists indicate that curing the "cold" isn't a matter of finding one effective drug for one particular kind of bug. They say a large number of viruses causes colds or cold-like ailments — 12 in one group alone (causing eye and throat symptoms). They say about 60 "strep" infections cause cold-like symptoms, and another 40 cause diseases resembling pneumonia.

If a cure is to embrace all these, then the doctors would seem to have cut themselves a tall order for the next five years. Maybe those editors can hold off a bit before scouting for a substitute to replace the old reliable.

Future Good for Farm Woodlots

Newspapers are currently faced with a critical newsprint shortage.
This shortage is an example of the over-increasing demand for forest products.

Will Illinois farmers be able to supply wood pulp for newsprint to keep the presses running in the future?

The answer is no. There are no newsprint mills near by. But farmers will be able to supply other wood-using industries whose demands are also increasing.

J. N. Spaeth, head of forestry department at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says Illinois farmers must play a big role in future production of forest products. Since farmers own one-third of all the timber land in the continental United States, farm woodlots will be an increasingly important source of wood products in coming years.

Spaeth says we have enough timber land to meet future needs if this land is properly managed.

For the three million acres of farm woodlands in Illinois, this means harvesting properly and preventing fire, grazing, insects and diseases. Spaeth says Illinois farmers could double or even treble the production of their woodlands in future years with wise management.

Arrange your feeding setup to let your animals do as much of the feeding job for themselves as possible.

Test Two New Vegetable- Type Soybeans

Two new vegetable-type soybeans, developed through state-federal cooperative research, are announced by Iowa State College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Seed of these two edible soybean varieties, named Kim and Kanrich, has been supplied to commercial seed and canning companies for testing during 1956. They will gradually become available to the home gardener and to food canners and freezers through regular seed sources following further seed increase. Neither Iowa State College nor the U. S. Department of Agriculture has seed of these varieties for distribution to gardeners.

Growers of field-type soybeans are cautioned not to switch to either of these new vegetable soybeans unless they have a market connection with a seed concern or food canning or freezing company.

Kim and Kanrich, the result of more than 10 years of breeding research, are strikingly superior to their predecessors. Kim grows an average of 15 inches taller than Sac, its vegetable-soybean parent, and has averaged nearly 14 bushels more beans per acre. Pods of the new variety shatter very little after ripening (Sac shatters badly), and its beans are better tasting.
Kanrich shows similar improvement over its edible soybean parent, Kanro. A field variety, Richland, is a parent of both new varieties.

The new soybeans are highly nutritious and can be used as a green or fresh-frozen vegetable when harvested before they mature. As mature dry beans, they can be baked or used in soups.

The two new varieties are generally adapted to the same area as the field soybean Hawkeye—the North Central and Middle Atlantic regions. Planted in May, beans of Kim and Kanrich are ready for harvest in late August or early September.

Time to Apply Nitrogen on Wheat, Soils Expert Says

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Early March is the time to apply nitrogen fertilizer as top dressing on winter wheat in southern Illinois, says Joseph P. Vavra, Southern Illinois University School of Agriculture soils specialist.

To broadcast the fertilizer when the plants are beginning to grow will give the wheat a quick early boost and will carry on to maturity. The quantity of nitrogen needed will depend upon the amount of organic matter present and the basic level of soil fertility. Wheat plants will be able to utilize greater quantities of nitrogen if the phosphorus and potash level is high.

On the basis of tests conducted at SIU, an application of 20 to 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre usually will be most profitable to southern Illinois wheat producers, Vavra says. Twenty pounds of nitrogen is equal to 100 pounds of sulfate of ammonia or 60 pounds of ammonium nitrate.

To apply, pick a time when the plant leaves do not have wet surfaces so that the fertilizer particles will roll off the leaves onto the soil, he advises.

One problem farmers may face in spring top dressing of wheat is wet fields. Where this problem is encountered too frequently, southern Illinois farmers may apply nitrogen with other fertilizers at seeding time in the fall. Vavra points out that in claypan type soils having slow moisture permeability, nitrogen does not leach away excessively during the winter.

In tests on such soils Vavra found little difference in wheat responses to either fall or spring nitrogen applications.

We Dare You

If you raise livestock, you know that more animals, faster gains, higher milk production, improved breeding efficiency, lower feed costs and reduced livestock losses all help to bring in more income.

If you have grass-legume pastures, we dare each of you to follow to the letter the following pasture management tips that should help in each of these ways to increase your income. This is really not a big dare. Each of these practices is reasonable and easy to follow:

(1) Do not turn animals onto any pasture until the plants are at least six inches tall. (2) Avoid overgrazing at any time. (3) Divide the pasture into at least two parts, and graze alternately at intervals of three to four weeks.
(4) Following the first grazing, on each half, topdress with at least 100 pounds of 48% superphosphate and 100 pounds of potash. (5) Clip each pasture after you take the livestock off. (6) Unless you want to plow a pasture containing legumes, do not graze from the last week in September until November or until after the first hard frost.

Delayed Grazing Helps Plants

Delayed grazing in the spring will insure stronger pasture plants.
Early spring growth comes almost entirely from root reserves. If plants are eaten off before they are large enough to make more food, they will recover slowly and many will never recover.

Alternate grazing gives plants a chance to recover. Grazing animals naturally like the newest, tenderest growth and will eat selected areas and plants to death. Mowing not only controls weeds and sprouts, but also evens up the pasture plants. The animals will eat new growth from previously refused areas and you won't have those

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer
With the arrival of March, farmers find themselves thinking more and more about rapidly approaching days when fields will be workable and the temperature will be right for seeding spring crops.

Hence, it is not amiss to throw out a reminder just now that it pays in better crop yields to prepare a good seed bed. This fundamental farming practice is more likely to be abused in the rush of spring field work than at other seasons.

Farmers who plan to seed a field of spring oats usually are torn between two decisions—whether to "mud" the seed into the ground for an early start, or to wait and catch the soil dry enough for cultivation and hope to get the seeding completed before the next shower of rain or before the season gets too far advanced for good oats development.

Obviously, the correct proceed-ure is to wait until the soil is at the proper working consistency and take a chance on getting the right kind of growing conditions.
If the field is plowed when the soil is too wet, more work is necessary in conditioning it for seeding, or the seed bed will be poor and crop yields will suffer.

Farmers who have consistent trouble getting a good seeding of spring oats might consider sowing winter oats in the fall. Farm advisers and agricultural experiment stations have enough information on hardiness to suggest a few winter oats varieties that ought to produce good yields in Southern Illinois.

Seed bed preparation for corn and soybean seeding also is easy to slight. This comes at a time when farmers are pressed with other field work. Certain legume hay crops may need to be harvested. Grass meadows and surplus pasture crops are ready to be cut for grass silage. Perhaps farm machinery which has not been checked and repaired carefully during the slack winter season gives way under the strain of hard use. Delays are expensive at this time.

Conditions may vary from farm to farm or field to field, but the general rule for a good seed bed is one in which the soil is fine, firm and moist around the seed. Keep soil-disturbing machinery out of the field unless the soil is dry enough to crumble well. Always be the first farmer of the neighborhood in the field to plow or plant may not mean getting the best crop yield.

Considerable recent study, writing, and discussion has been developing around ideas of planting corn directly in plowed soil and seeding soybeans in a rough field.
Mulch planting of corn has attracted much attention. Good results have been obtained.

Retarding erosion and saving labor are two of the more important advantages attached to these newer cultural practices. Usually there must be a special adaptation of farm machinery to the job.

However, even in these practices farmers do not lose sight of the need for a good seed bed, although it may be limited to the soil area in the immediate vicinity of the seeds. To germinate and grow, seeds must have fine particles of moist soil about them.

Usually the best way to be completely misunderstood is to say exactly what you think.

Farmers' Net Income Drops Billion Dollars

WASHINGTON (U)—The realized net income of farmers in 1955 dropped one billion dollars, or 9 per cent, from 1954, the Agriculture Department reported today.
The sharp drop was due to lower average prices received for farm products and a slight increase in farm expenses, the department said in its publication, "The Farm Income Situation."

Department economists forecast last November a further drop of 400 million dollars in farm income during this year. But the forecast did not take into consideration any increased income farmers might receive from operation of the soil bank—if adopted—and other legislation.

The net per capita income of farmers dropped to $860, 6 per cent below the $913 per capita income in 1954. Part of this per capita drop was caused by an increase of 1 per cent in the farm population of 22.2 million persons.
Per capita income of the non-farm population increased almost 5 per cent in 1955.

If the value of changes in crop and livestock inventories is included, the net decline in farm income from 1954 to 1955 was $1,300,000,000, or 11 per cent.
Farmers as a whole built up their inventories in both years, but the increase was smaller in 1955 than in 1954. The inventory included stocks of crops and livestock farmers had not marketed by year's end.

Net income after the adjustment for inventory change was 11 billion dollars in 1955. Addition of farm wages of two billion dollars and six billion dollars of income from non-farm sources gives 19 billion dollars as the total net income of the farm population. This was 5 per cent below 1954.

The realized net income of farm operators is obtained by subtracting total farm production expenses from realized gross farm income.
Realized gross income was down 2.5 per cent to $33,200,000,000 in 1955, while production expenses increased 1 per cent to $22,400,000, 000. This resulted in the 9 per cent decline in realized net income.

Miss Carolyn Sue Hughes, Floyd Ralph Yates Wed at First Christian Church

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ralph Yates (Foster Studio Photo)

Before an altar beautifully decorated with burning tapers in candelabra, standards of white daisies and gladioli, and a white arch entwined with jade and emerald, Miss Carolyn Sue Hughes, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Hess of 506 South Main, and Clyde Hughes, Detroit, Mich., became the bride of Floyd Ralph Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hazel Yates of Equality, in a double ring ceremony at the First Christian church.

The Rev. Glen Daugherty, pastor, performed the service Sunday, March 4, at two o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a ballerina length gown of white satin and chintilly lace. The bodice of lace was designed with low rounded neckline with an inset of nylon tulle and a tiny stand-up lace collar. The long sleeves tapered to a point over the hand. The bouffant skirt was fashioned of satin with ruffles with chintilly lace panels in the front and back. Her fingertip veil of illusion was secured to a head piece of chintilly lace edged with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white shasta daisies and lily of the valley encircled with white net and satin bows and streamers.

Miss Jane Ellen Hughes, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a ballerina length gown of pink satin with a tulle overskirt and a bodice of chintilly lace and tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pom poms and chrysanthemums with pink net and pink satin streamers. She wore a headpiece of pink faille with matching veil.

Bridesmaids were Shirley Turner, Linda Adams, Clara Short, and Annabelle Garrison. All four were dressed identically in ballerina length gowns of aqua satin, lace and tulle, and carried identical bouquets of yellow glamelias and daisy chrysanthemums with yellow satin bows and streamers.

Raymond Sisk of Harrisburg was best man to the bridegroom, and Ronnie Ziegler, Raymond Parker, Bucky Rice and Joe Pickering served as ushers.

Mrs. Ruth Thompson, organist, played "Because," "With This Ring I Thee Wed," "I Love You Truly," and "The Wedding March."

Mrs. Hess chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of brown embroidered taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of pink glamelias.

The bridegroom's mother also wore a dress of brown with a pink glamelia corsage.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Hostesses were Mrs. Onita Cannon, Mrs. Zola Sloan, Mrs. Sibyl Kinser, Mrs. Lora Jo Rude, Mrs. Jane Brown, Mrs. Shirley Hughes, Mrs. Dorothy Helen Baldwin and Mrs. Helen Harper. Miss Dorothy Schneider registered guests.

After the reception the bride and groom left for an undisclosed destination, and upon their return advised they were in Alton where they were entertained at a party in their behalf at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Della Muenstermann. They are now at home at the Wiley Apartments on South Granger.

The bride is a graduate of the Harrisburg Township high school with the class of 1953 and will retain her position as secretary to Frank P. Parker of the Parker Oil Co. The bridegroom was graduated from the Equality high school with the class of 1952 and is a bulldozer operator with Vinyard Coal company in Equality.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Davis, Alton, Mrs. Ella Hughes, grandmother of the bride, Detroit, Mich., Donald Muenstermann, Alton, Donald Thomas, St. Louis, Mo., Gary Hughes, Tommy Hughes and Ricky Hughes, all of Detroit, Mich.

RUN AWAY GARDEN TOOLS

A most interesting occurrence was just reported to me by A. A. Durham, Jr., proprietor of the Durham Hardware Store on N. Main Street in Harrisburg.

It seems that Mr. Durham was displaying some garden tools on a rack equipped with rollers in front of his store. While waiting on a customer, he glanced out the front window and saw this rack of garden tools slowly disappearing in the general direction of the fairgrounds.

His first thought was that some youngster was pushing this rack away, but upon dashing out the front door, he found that the wind was propelling this rack. He caught up with it just as it was crossing Elm Street and of course was about to collide with an automobile.

The question was raised as to whether or not his contents policy would protect him against this type of loss to his garden tools, and the answer is, "Yes, it would."

Another question was raised and that question was, "Would Mr. Durham's liability policy pay for the damage to the automobile if a collision had occurred?" The answer to this is, "Yes, if Mr. Durham had any legal liability as a result of the accident." However, it is extremely unlikely that he would have because a windstorm of this nature is considered to be an act of God, and Mr. Durham might not be held liable. However, his liability policy would protect him if he were liable and would furnish him with an adequate defense as well as competent attorneys in the event that a claim was made.

READING LESSON

Dr. Standish has had years of experience reading X-Rays like this one. To his trained eyes, each light and shadow means something, and this understanding has given new health and new life to countless persons.

But to most of us, this X-Ray is undecipherable. To understand its message, we would have to take a new kind of reading lesson; we would have to spend long hours at study.

Like the X-Ray, many of life's questions seem at first glance unanswerable. Indeed, some are beyond man's understanding. But in Church, we can be taught a new way of reading that makes mysteries far greater than that of this X-Ray seem suddenly, miraculously clear.

If you are interested in the meaning of life for yourself and your children, then profit by the teachings of the Church that have stood the test of centuries for millions of people.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Jesus Interprets History'

GOLDEN TEXT: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away." (Luke 21:33)

INTRODUCTION — God has a plan for this world. He has not been defeated. His original plans have not been set aside. He knows what is going on at every moment. Every child of God is assured of victory in the end. The crown of victory is already prepared to place upon the heads of the children of God.

Interpreting history is not such a difficult job. It is rather easy to thumb through the pages of a history book and place one's interpretation on that which has already happened.

However, prophecy is quite different. Prophecy delves into the future, and is not as easily interpreted. Our lesson for this week deals with prophecy.

I THE PROPHECY OF THE TREES (VV 29-32)

Please note here that Jesus says: "Behold the fig tree and all the trees." Some folks want to apply the fig tree here to Israel and say that this refers to the day when the Kingdom of God shall be established in Israel. The thing that we need to notice is that Jesus points out "all the trees." He is telling us that when the trees begin to bud and blossom out we know that spring is near. Just so, there are certain things which will be signs that the Kingdom of God is at hand.

Many people believe that Jesus is about ready to return to earth at this present time. Frankly, no one knows when Jesus is coming. The main thing is: we should be ready for His coming. Christian people are not looking for signs of His coming nearly so much as they are listening for "the trumpet to sound" and the "shout of victory" from the skies. When that happens we will "look up." "We will not all sleep, but we shall be changed. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we (the living) shall be changed." (I Corinthians 15:51-52)

West Frankfort Wins Sectional Crown

Red Birds Will Play Pinckneyville in First Round of State Finals

Carmi Defeated In Sectional Finals, 48 to 47

The West Frankfort Red Birds went back home last night to play Pinckneyville in the first round of the state meet in the Frankfort gym Tuesday evening, and they took the Harrisburg sectional first place trophy home with them.

Coach George Lubelt's boys, minus ace Paul Peeler and player Royce McElwee who were dropped from the squad a couple of weeks before the season ended, presented their mentor with a fine present—a 48-47 win over Carmi in the sectional basketball tournament finals last night before a crowd that filled Davenport gym. There weren't quite as many fans as the crowd that jammed the big building for the Carmi-Shawneetown game Wednesday night, but the gym was full. Throughout most of the game it appeared that West Frankfort probably would win, as the Red Birds stayed arm's length away from the Bull Dogs with leads usually running from four to six points. But the tide started changing in the last four minutes of the final period and it looked like Carmi had Frankfort on the ropes and would win. But Frankfort rallied enough to come out with a one-point victory.

Carmi Narrows Gap

The count was tied 12-12 at the quarter after West Frankfort had led up until the last 50 seconds except for the counts at 6-8 and 8-8. Then Frankfort's Vlado Zravich made two free throws and a basket and Ron Avery hit a free throw to give Frankfort a 17-12 lead which the Birds held until the closing minutes. Frankfort led 25-21 at the half and 39-33 at the end of the third period, then extended the lead to eight points, 41-33, at the outset of the final quarter.

Carmi then came to life and started narrowing the margin, outscoring the Red Birds 12 to 6 to tie the count at 45 to 45 with two minutes left in the game.

With bedlam in the stands, it was then anybody's game. With a minute and 50 seconds left, Jim Burke, who had entered the game at center when Zravich fouled out connected and the score remained 47-45 in favor of Frankfort until 40 seconds remained as Carmi jockeyed for a good shot. At that point Ronnie Winter loosed a 30-foot one-hander that swished through the net.

Frankfort took the ball and started playing control ball in an effort to get a good shot. Frankfort got free with the ball under the basket but before he could shoot he was clobbered by Carmi's Shelby Hankins with 13 seconds left in the game. Burke made his first free shot, then missed the bonus, to give Frankfort the 48-47 lead.

Miss Final Shot

Carmi took the ball down the floor but got tied up for a jump ball at the Carmi circle with six seconds left. Carmi got the tip and Winters shot—but missed—and the ball game was over. Carmi did not play nearly as deliberately against Frankfort as the team did in nosing out Shawneetown by one point Wednesday night. The Bull Dogs continued to jump well and took more shots than Frankfort. Both teams hit 18 from the field but Frankfort connected with 12 out of 18 free throw attempts compared with Carmi's 11 out of 21.

Frankfort had a 383 shooting percentage, making 18 out of 47, while Carmi's 333 resulted from making 18 out of 54 from the field. Spearheading the Frankfort attack were the two small guards, Capt. Don Griffin, 5-7 and 135 pounds, who made 18 points for the night's scoring honors, and Wayne Neibel, not much bigger at 5-10 and 150, who made 10.

High for Carmi was Mike McCombs, a 6-2 sophomore forward, who had 12.

The box score:

Looking at Sports

BY BILL MELTON

The officials working the sectional tournament staged at the department gymnasium will also work the state tournament at Huff gym on the U. of I. campus.

James McCoskey of Murphysboro and Claude W. Rhodes of Benton will be making their third consecutive trip as officials to the state finals and are expected to draw the championship game assignment.

The other two officials at the state tourney will be William D. Cox, Charleston, and Dwight B. Wilkey, Monticello.

Thirty-three radio stations will broadcast part or all of the state basketball finals. Included in the list is WEBQ, Harrisburg, with Ken Hamilton and Elmer Gladson at the mikes. They will air every game of the affair. Other southern Illinois stations carrying the meet include WCNT, Central; WJPF, Herrin; WMIX, Mt. Vernon and WROY, Carmi.

The tournament also will be televised. Friday's games will be on WCIA, Champaign (channel 3) and WEEK-TV, Peoria (channel 43). Nine other stations will join the televising Saturday.

Varsity basketball letters have been awarded at the University of Illinois, it has been announced. Receiving the awards were Billy Altenberger, E. St. Louis; Bruce Brothers, Quincy; George Bon-Salle, Chicago; Don Ohl, Edwardsville; Paul Judson, Hebron; Phil Judson, Hebron; Bill Ridley, Taylorville; Harvard Schmidt, Kankakee and Hiles Stout, Peoria.

George BonSalle paced the Illini basketball scorers during the past season with a total of 430 points, averaging 19.5 per game. During their 22-game schedule the Illini scored 1,996 points for an average of 90.7 and held their opponents to 1,678, an average of 76.3.

True Story Dept. This incident happened several years ago—maybe as long as 20 years back—and the coach involved is no longer in these immediate parts.

Back in those days The Register didn't have someone roaming over the countryside looking for sports news, but was happy to use any story that might be called in or brought to the office.

Tim Turner tells about a coach that came in pretty often with a story and box score about his team winning a basketball game. The season wore on, as seasons will, and it was getting close to tournament time and the coach appeared once again with a winning story and box score.

Tim said "Say coach, we ought to have a feature about your team. Maybe pictures, too." "Why" asked the coach? "Well, you haven't lost a game and that is worth a big story."

"Yes, we lost several," the coach replied. "But I don't remember ever writing a story of a game you lost," Tim insisted.

"That's right, you haven't," the coach said in bringing the discussion to a close. "You don't think I would drive all the way over here to tell you about my team getting beat, do you?"

For the second consecutive year the Southern Illinois university basic AFROTC rifle team scored top honors at the Camp Perry midwest indoor match at Kemper Military Academy, Booneville, Mo. Billy Joe Whiting of Carrier Mills is a member of the four-man squad and finished fourth in grand aggregate score. Approximately 50 teams were entered in the matches.

Tourney Sidelights

The cycle just lacked a couple of points of being completed last night.

Billy Lasater, a sophomore squad member of the Carmi Bull Dogs, was 16 years old yesterday. On his 14th birthday the Carmi grade school team, on which he was a starter, won the state grade school championship.

Last year, on his 15th birthday, the Carmi freshman team, of which he was a member, won the Salem freshman tournament.

So, with all that, it looked like Carmi had the big chance to win the first sectional tournament in the history of the school on Billy's 16th birthday.

The Bull Dogs almost did it.

Lots of fans, after last night's finals, still believed the best team did not win the Harrisburg sectional. The best team they were referring to was Shawneetown, of course. They're probably right. In fact, that's this writer's opinion, too. But when tourney time comes around, you can't have any bad games and be around for the next one.

Carmi was as enthusiastic as any town could possibly be over the sectional. Carmi people said that at least 1,500 were down to root for their Bull Dogs.

Frankfort came out strong, too, for this final game. Color was added to last night's session by Frankfort high school boys in comic attire who got out on the floor and yelled. The boys were good and yelled, too.

The crowd was kept informed of the progress of the Pinckneyville-Herrin game from halftime on.

Major Leagues Embark on Grapefruit Play

By United Press
It's "play ball" in the Grapefruit League today and it's a cry that'll echo all over the land until the World Series is tucked away in the history books next October.

With the preliminary "limbering up" stage of their problems out of the way, the 16 major league teams embark on a grueling schedule of some 280 exhibition games leading up to the April 17 opener. It's a period when rookies become national heroes and one-time heroes become castoffs.

The opening program finds the Brooklyn Dodgers taking the field as world champions for the first time in a night game against the Boston Red Sox at Miami, Fla.

In the remainder of the Florida program, the American League champion New York Yankees renew their old rivalry with the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, the Cincinnati Reds play the Chicago White Sox in Tampa, the Washington Senators meet the Detroit Tigers at Lakeland, the Philadelphia Phillies play the Milwaukee Braves at Clearwater and the Kansas City Athletics face the Pittsburgh Pirates at West Palm Beach.

The New York Giants and Cleveland Indians square off at Tucson and the Chicago Cubs and Baltimore Orioles meet at Scottsdale in the "Arizona section" of the citrus circuit.

7,635 Paid Admissions at Sectional Here

The three-night Harrisburg sectional basketball tournament which ended last night drew 7,635 paid admissions but it was estimated that the tourney total was approximately 8,200 due to free admittance to teams, cheer leaders, press, radio and others.

Principal Eltis Henson, tournament manager, said there were 3,237 paid admissions Wednesday night for the Shawneetown-Carmi game, 1,601 paid admissions for the West Frankfort-Metropolis game Thursday night, and 2,791 paid admissions for the West Frankfort-Carmi finals last night.
